Stirring Things Up

THE NEWEST CULINARY star in Los Angeles is STIR MARKET, a boutique adaptation of the classic European food hall. Led by a team that includes Food Network chef Jet Tila, the casual 4,000-square-foot Beverly Boulevard destination is packed with specialty food stalls that offer baked goods, snacks, coffee and tea, and grab-and-go meals. A craft-wine-and-beer bar features 15 taps, along with selections by the bottle, and retail boutiques stock kitchen goods and gift items to suit every taste. Expect a full menu of cookbook signings, chef appearances and other epicurean events, in addition to spacious indoor and outdoor seating areas.
